It is 31 October. It is Halloween. It is 22:00 and it is dark.

Petra is a driver. She drives Truck 5. She doesn't like Halloween. She doesn't watch scary films, and she doesn't like dark warehouses.

Tonight Petra brings brake parts to the Toyota warehouse. Gate 1 is closed, so she uses Gate 3. The warehouse is very quiet. The lights aren't on. Nobody is here.

Petra unloads the pallets. Then she stops. There is a big box next to the door. It isn't on her list.

"Is this box for Toyota?" she asks. Nobody answers.

The box has a face: two big eyes and a big smile. There is a light in the eyes. It is orange.

Petra calls Jan.
"Jan, there is a box at Gate 3. It has a face. Does it have an order number?"
"No, it doesn't," Jan says. "I don't send boxes with faces."
"Is it from the Parts Centre?"
"No, it isn't. Petra… does the face move?"

Petra looks. The face doesn't move. But the light in the eyes moves.

Petra opens the box. Inside, there is a big orange pumpkin. It has a face, and there is a candle in it. Next to the pumpkin there is a card:

> "Happy Halloween, Petra! From Marek."

Petra laughs. Marek isn't ill tonight. He isn't at home. He is behind the forklift!

"Do you like it?" Marek asks.
"No, I don't," Petra says. Then she smiles. "OK. Yes, I do. A little."

Did you know?

A pumpkin with a face and a candle is a jack-o'-lantern. The first jack-o'-lanterns are from Ireland, and they aren't pumpkins. They are turnips (tuřín)! Pumpkins come from America.
